Leslie Conley Defeats Jesse Sweetser in Semi-Final and Then Wins Victory Cup Tourney Champion's Conquerer Scores

Over John Anderson in Final

Margin of Victory in Both Matches Is 2 Up and I to Play; Newly Crowned National Title Holder Trails After His Opponent Gets Early Lead

By Ray McCarthy

Jesse Sweetser, national amateur golf champion of only two weeks, was beaten in the semi-final round of the Victory Cup tournament at Grassy Sprain yesterday. The beautiful trophy which Jesse was reaching for went to Leslie Conley, of the Siwanoy Club, Sweetser's conqueror, who defeated John G. Anderson in the final round. Conley's margin of victory in both of these matches was the same, 2 up and 1 to play.

Sweetser's defeat by his clubmate !prising to the majority. But it was ather what his father and others near the young champion had expected. The pater noted the change in the sen's game as early as last Sunday washington and Jefferson this afterwhen Jesse played in a four-ball match at Scarsdale. "I noticed then," said Mr. Sweetser, in discussing the contest after it was over, "Jesse didn't have the touch."

The sum and substance of Sweetser's downfall yesterday was that he was ripe for picking. His streamon and Jefferson this after no to prevent a scoreless tie with Geneva College in the opening clash of the 1922 season. downfall yesterday was that ripe for picking. His strenuous and tally 14 to 0.

The line-up: tainly took its toll and he is now in p. need of a rest. Knowingly or unknowingly Sweetser yesterday was suffering distely following their achievements.

But we don't care to give the impression that Sweetser was beaten by a dub or that he caved in completely. Leslie Conley is an extremely capable linksman who has won various tournaments throughout the country and who is quite able to take the measure of Sweetser or any other champion. If ever there was a hard-luck golfer it is Conley. That dreaded jinx has pursued him consistently and continually for the past two years or more and he was about due for a break.

Conley Leads by Three Holes

Conley Leads by Three Holes Conley got an early lead by steady play. Sweetser began his round badly and was having difficulty controlling his shots. He was hooking his drives as well as playing his irons erratically and that meant he was having a deal of trouble right through the farway. Conley was able to get a lead of three holes before the match had hardly begun.

The elimination of Sweetser wasn't the only surprise at Grassy Sprain yesterdsy. In the final round of the second sixteen Charles Somers, a lad of but fifteen years, defeated the rangy and long-hitting Harry Scharff by 1 up. Somers played his own game unmindful of the fact he was striving for a prize, while Scharff was having his troubles through the fairway. Both of these boys were members of New York's public links team.
